Students Search for Knowledge

As a mom or dad and homeschool teacher, you are a valued community member on the front lines of an evolving educational movement. All of us at Titanic Museum Attraction in Branson respect and appreciate your role in providing youngsters a quality education.

Professional educators agree that a key component in learning involves a student's freedom to engage meaningfully in whatever sparks his/her interest and imagination. The Teacher's Guide Program at Titanic is designed to help you do just that. Its goal is to provide a unique "learning experience" that engages every child who visits the museum. With Titanic as their classroom, students can explore their interests in art, history, math, science and geography—all in a meaningful and "natural learning" process.

Because there is so much to explore, we created a scavenger hunt to help students become acquainted with the ship while they tour. To download the Titanic Scavenger Hunt, visit www.titanicbranson.com and click the top menu's "Education" tab. Next, click "Scavenger Hunt." Bring along printed copies for every child in your group.

Children are in awe when they board Titanic. We see it in their eyes and in the questions they ask. Suddenly they realize Titanic isn't a musty, stodgy museum but an exciting ship-shaped classroom filled with history, hands-on experiments, mysteries to solve and fascinating stories about real people and events.

Titanic Museum Attraction is pleased to extend homeschoolers a special invitation to enroll at "Titanic U" for the special price of $8.50 per student. This unique program will run from October 2011 thru October, 2012. Plus other home school dates throughout the year are noted on the back. Reservations are required, so we urge you to act soon. Please call 417-334-9500 for more information or to enroll.

Sincerely yours,
